In addition to a cash (check) contribution, you can make donations to Sinai by transferring stock or by using your IRA distributions.

- Sinai's brokerage account makes it easy to complete transfers of appreciated stock. Sinai will immediately sell the stock and credit the net proceeds as your contribution to the campaign. Contributions of publicly-traded stock held more than one year are generally deductible at the average of the low and high trading prices on the date of transfer. You then avoid the tax inherent on the gain in stock value and you get a charitable contribution for the full value of the net proceeds.
- Another efficient way to support Sinai is through IRA distributions. IRA rules allow individuals who are 70 1/2 years old and over to direct up to $100,000 per year of their IRA distributions to a charity without paying tax on the amount distributed to the charity. If you have any interest in either path, contact Karen Berk for more information.
